

REGULARS RUSHED TO BORDER FOR USE AGAINST MEXICANS

WORD THAT GREASERS ARE MOBILIZING NEAR LAREDO CAUSES ARMY CHIEFS TO TAKE PRECAUTIONS AGAINST TROUBLE.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., July 16.—The United States army garrison at Laredo is being reinforced following reports of incursion of hostiles across the border. It was announced at southern department headquarters that additional troops were to be sent to Laredo and the night gun company of the Thirty-seventh infantry was ordered to return to Laredo.

In announcing the dispatch of additional troops to the border Col. A. E. Slatton, department adjutant, said the action was merely precautionary. He declined to say what orders had been given Col. Frank L. Wilson, commanding the Thirty-seventh, forty-four small detachment at Laredo, but explained that standing orders authorized border commanders to act in emergency to defend military experiments across the line.

Laredo, Tex., July 16.—The first attack of approximately 400 troops under General Ricardo Gonzales on Nuevo Laredo, the Mexican border post opposite here, was repulsed early this morning by the 300 Orlototicias and customs guards forming the garrison there, but it was believed the other attacks were imminent.

The attack, which came at 5 o'clock, was believed to have been the last point far another assault.

From Nuevo Laredo officials it was learned news had been received from Monterrey, that small parties have arisen, destroyed the railroad and probably united with other groups under General Gonzales.

Gonzales was reported to have captured Candela and Lampa and to be concentrating some bands from Nuevo Laredo at the latter place, where he also was joined by a small party of soldiers from the garrison of opposite here who deserted four or five days ago, and some thirty customs guards who switched over. They were armed.

Gonzales stopped on an American ranch in a night and sent word by the man that he would attack at noon today unless Nuevo Laredo was surrendered.

Chicago, July 16.—Reviewing the agricultural situation in Illinois, D. O. Thompson, secretary of the Illinois Agricultural Association, today summarized crop condition and spoke of business organization of the farmers.

"Illinois farming," Thompson said, "is going forward with the season. Backwardness of the spring, too wet followed by too dry, short labor supply, indifferent soil, at undreamed wages, extreme efforts of the part of the farmers, his wife, let alone because wages of the industries have drawn their boy and girl away from home, implementing that effort while additional machinery bought at advanced prices, seeking opportunity to ship grain or market live stock at not too great a sacrifice in order that credit of the bank may not be impaired, especially seeking improved methods of co-operative marketing of the products of his till and his soil that he may be better paid and the tollers of the city be better fed—these are the things which characterize the season of 1920 in Illinois agriculture.

"Ninety-four and twenty-five Illinois members of county farm bureaus, as members of the Illinois Agricultural Association, farm bureau main-tain an office, usually at the county seat, and each employs several high class practical farming experts, with technical training.

The efforts of these men, directed by a board of directors are devoted to promotion of improved, economical methods of crop and livestock production, co-operative marketing through local elevators, livestock shippers associations, pure live-breed associations, etc., of the products of the farms and co-operative purchasing of equipment and supplies. Annual funds for this work, raised by membership dues, range in amount from $6,000 to $54,000 per county.

In each county, the farm bureau office is the recognized, dominant force to which the farmers of each county look for leadership in developing Illinois farming conditions, so that farmers uniting in county farm bureaus and the Illinois Agricultural Association, assembling a fund of a $15,000,000 of their own money to promote economical production and profitable marketing as in what they say when they adopt the slogan 'Organized for business.'

Alkali in Shampoos Bad For Washing Hair

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali, which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is Mulsified coconut oil shampoo, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It's very cheap and beats anything else all to pieces. You can get this at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in, about a teaspoonful is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy and easy to handle. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff. Cost a trifle. Please try it!
